LAKELAND'S LITTLE LEARNERS

December 2025

Last month...

Last month, we shifted from our planned holiday cooking activities to an exciting student-led project: building gingerbread houses. What began as a small idea quickly grew into a full-class endeavor, with some students using cardboard templates and others designing their own unique structures. The creativity on display was remarkable, and although the project got a bit messy, it was well worth it to see their imaginative work come to life. The students proudly chose to display their creations in the cafeteria, naming the exhibit Candy Cane Lane: Our Gingerbread Neighborhood. This festive display has become a wonderful way to kick off our holiday season.

Family Activity

Witness the building of the World's Tallest Glass Tree, live glassblowing, steel sculpting and woodworking. Alongside a Winter Market comprised of local artisans, craftspeople, and custom handmade glassware made by Mack. All this can be found at Yerkes Observatory December 5-7 and December 12-13.

This month...

During the month of December, we plan to move forward with our holiday cooking activities. Our recipes will include both cultural dishes and traditional holiday treats, giving students a chance to explore a variety of flavors and traditions. Students will help develop grocery lists and work together to prepare each recipe in class. We look forward to not only making these goodies but also sharing them with our families and favorite teachers.
